BONUS · ONE

Product Examples

These are all real winning products currently working in the market. Do not just watch them. Study them. Look at the hook, the pacing, the angle, the audience they are clearly speaking to, and which production style they use. Every one teaches a different lesson about why content hits.

Wow factor & visual spectacle

Products where the spectacle alone stops the scroll. Study the reveal moment.

WOW FACTOR

Red light hat

Strong AI character-led concept built around a visual gimmick. Watch how the hook is constructed and how the product is revealed.

SAME PRODUCT, NEW ANGLE

Red light hat (alt)

A completely different ad concept for the same product. Live proof of the angle-switching idea from Module 9.3.

Watch on Instagram →

WOW FACTOR

Bubble machine

Pure wow factor product. The spectacle itself is the hook. No character needed.

Watch on Instagram →

PROBLEM + WOW

Automatic ironer

Problem-solving product with a satisfying visual reveal. The transformation is the spectacle.

Watch on Instagram →

Problem-solving & value products

Strong use cases, clear transformations, real reasons to buy.

PROBLEM-SOLVING

Ear cleaner

Classic problem-solving product with a clear visual use case. The kind of insecurity/value combo from Module 5.4.

FAMILY NICHE

Toddler product

Family-focused product. Notice the ICP: it is the parent, not the toddler, that buys.

Watch on Instagram →

EMOTIONAL PROBLEM

Baby sleep headband

Parent-targeted, emotional angle around helping a baby sleep. Strong purchase intent product.

Watch on Instagram →

SAME PRODUCT, NEW ANGLE

Baby sleep headband (alt)

Same product, different ad concept. Another live proof of how one product runs multiple angles.

Watch on Instagram →

EMOTIONAL FACTOR

Baby fall pad

Targets a very emotional factor: protecting a baby from falling. The fear is the hook.

Watch on Instagram →

Passionate-niche products

Products where the buyer is part of a niche so passionate they pull out the card on sight.

EXTREME PASSION

Michael Jackson bags

Extreme passionate audience. The product has decent perceived value on top of that, which lets the price hold.

Watch on Instagram →

USE CASE + NICHE

Cowboy boot wallets

Good use case and a passionate audience. Two criteria stacked in one product.

Watch on Instagram →

THIS ONE PRINTED

Western belts

Strong use case and passionate audience. This product printed. Study the entire run, this is what a winner looks like.

Watch on Instagram →

INSECURITY NICHE

Red light stomach fat burner

Body insecurity + visible transformation. Exactly the product type AI specifically unlocked (Module 5.4).

TIGHT ICP

Oil for PCOS

An oil product, but the angle is targeted specifically at women with PCOS. The image quality could be higher and the angle could be sharpened, both of which would lift it. Study the targeting.

Watch on Instagram →

WOW + PASSION

Wow factor + passionate audience

Both criteria nailed in a single product. The combination is where the biggest results come from.

Production-style examples

Less about the product, more about the production technique. Steal the structure.

100% AI

Hidden ad concept

A great example of an ad that does not feel like an ad. Fully AI generated. Study how the product is woven into the moment.

Watch on Instagram →

HYBRID · AI + STITCH

Belt product

Hybrid video: AI + stitch clips. Strong controversy hook plus a clean product showcase. Watch how the two production methods are stitched together.

HOW TO USE THIS SWIPE FILE

Do not just watch and move on. For each example, ask: what is the hook, who is the ICP, why does this product fit this angle, and what production style did they use? When you can answer all four for any video here, you have learned what it teaches. Then steal the structure and apply it to your own product.
