imarketing.courses

CONTENTSYSTEM.AI

MODULE 10.2

The Store That Converts

The product-page essentials. The "After You Go Viral" section covered the principles. This is the concrete list.

imarketing.courses

MODULE 10.2

The Store That Converts

The deep conversion principles (the 60/30/10 color rule, friction reduction to checkout, social proof, and choice overload) were covered in the "After You Go Viral" section, and they all apply here. This module is about the concrete product-page essentials, the specific elements the page needs to have. The attached video shows you how to place these in the Shrine theme.

What the page must include

Your product page should include the elements that build urgency and trust and answer the buyer's questions before they have to ask.

Timer

Creates urgency, signaling the offer or shipping deal will not last forever. This pushes the on-the-fence buyer to act now instead of later, and later usually means never.

Gifs and clear visuals of the product in action

The buyer came straight from a video and wants to see the product do its thing on the page too. Show it working.

FAQ section

Heads off the doubts and questions that would otherwise stop a purchase. Shipping, returns, how it works, all the rest, answered right there on the page so the buyer never has to leave to find out.

Reviews and social proof

Reassure the buyer that real people bought this and were happy. This is one of the strongest forces in getting a stranger to trust a store they just discovered.

imarketing.courses

THE OVERARCHING IDEA

Ties back to the "After You Go Viral" section. The page has to look trustworthy enough that a cautious person believes it, and be simple enough that anyone can get from product to paid without confusion. The product-page essentials above are what deliver that.

THE SETUP WALKTHROUGH

The hands-on build (the Shrine theme files plus step-by-step YouTube walkthroughs) lives in the Bonus Resources section at the end of the course. Watch those videos to install the theme, place these essentials in it, and connect the domain. Those videos plus this module are everything you need.