MODULE 13.1

It's a Volume and Reps Game

Early on, your job is reps, not riches. You are going to run many products and post a lot of content, and most of it will not be a home run. That is not failure, that is the process working as intended. Every product you run and every video you make is a rep that builds the skill, and the skill is the actual asset. Volume is how you get the reps, and reps are how you get good.

WHY AI IS THE EDGE ON MINDSET

The thing that used to make volume painful and expensive was production. When every video cost time, the volume needed to build the skill felt brutal. When you generate content, the cost per rep collapses, so you can get the reps far faster and cheaper than anyone could before. The volume game is winnable in a fraction of the time.

"Do not get precious about any single video or product. Produce, post, learn, repeat."
